

MS.C. Aleksander Bomberski, EUFRAS Board member

Advisor and senior innovation specialist who has been involved in agricultural innovation since the beginning of his professional career. Agricultural biotechnologist and manager by profession. He is currently finalizing his PhD thesis about the importance of agricultural advisory services in the implementation of innovation in agriculture and rural areas. Participant of many domestic and foreign trainings (CECRA Module certificate), has an English language certificate. He is constantly improving his qualifications by participating in courses and trainings for innovation advisors and brokers. Since 2016, he has been creating EIP_AGRI Operational Groups for innovation in agriculture and rural areas. Co-founder of several groups and consortia implementing innovative projects. He conducts trainings for farmers, advisors, entrepreneurs and scientists in the field of methodology for creating Operational Groups. As a national innovation broker he is responsible for the implementation and dissemination of Measure 16 "Cooperation" and coordinates work of advisors acting as regional innovation brokers located in the Regional Agricultural Advisory Centers. Participant of the National Thematic Group on Innovation and the Working Team for Measure 16 "Cooperation". Participant of study visits to many EU countries to exchange knowledge and experience in implementing agricultural innovation, including of the Nordic-Baltic National Rural Networks. Employee of the Agricultural Advisory Center in Brwinów, Warsaw branch office (national support unit of the National Rural Network and coordinating office of Network on Innovation in Agriculture and Rural Areas).